

For 40 Years

Wintersmith's Chill Cure

Has been curing Chills Ague, Dengue, LaGrippe and Malarial Ills of all kinds. A 50c. bottle will break your chills; and you can get it from your druggist, who will refund your money if the medicine does you no good. Why don't you try it? It is unequaled as a General Tonic.

A Thanksgiving Pudding.
Just shelve yours for a season while you try this one. Pour four cupfuls of hot sealed milk over one and one-fourth cupfuls of rolled common crackers, and let stand until cool. Add one cupful of sugar, four eggs slightly beaten, one-half of a grated nutmeg, one teaspoonful of salt, and one-third of a cupful of melted butter. Par-boil one and one-half cupfuls of raisins until soft by cooking in boiling water to cover seed, and add to the mixture. Turn into a buttered pudding dish and bake slowly two and one-half hours, stirring after the first half hour of the cooking to prevent raisins from settling. This pudding may, of course, may be made a day or two in advance, and reheated for serving.—Woman's Home Companion for November.

A man in New York has completed fifty years of service with the firm by which he employed and the occasion has been recognized by giving him a dinner and a loving cup. If any man in the country has made a longer record of continuous service with one firm now is a good time for him to stand up and get applauded.

Croup.

A reliable medicine and one that should always be kept in the home for immediate use is Chamberlain's Cough Remedy. It will prevent the attack if given as soon as the children becomes hoarse, or even after the croupy cough appears. For sale by all druggists.

HON. DAVE CULBERSON WITH PROHIBITION.

(Concluded from last week.)

Prohibition is a simple exercise of a police power, inherent and abiding with the people. The courts, state and federal, have so declared and adjudicated. No question arising out of our form of government has been more definitely settled and adjudicated. The question is not one of power, but the sole and only question before the people of Texas: "Are the evils which attend the manufacture and sale of alcoholic liquors as a beverage so hurtful to the welfare of the public as to authorize the prohibition of both?"

I conclude that persons do, and very properly, differ as to the extent of the injury inflicted upon the public by these injuries, and this, together with a prevalent doubt in the minds of many that prohibition cannot be enforced, presents the only debatable ground in controversy. The assumption that any principle of democratic faith denies to a majority of the people of a state the right and power of the people to employ prohibition in the suppression of an evil, which, in the judgment of such majority is destructive of the public welfare, assails the most cherished principle of our theory of government. I take great pleasure in making the statement that the democratic party is the devoted friend of the people. In this respect, in deed, it partakes largely of the personal characteristics of its founder, Mr. Jefferson. The party is thoroughly committed to that system of laws which secures to the citizen the largest liberty consistent with the welfare of the public. It regards that government as a simple repository of right surrendered by the people upon trust, and regards that government best which governs least. Influenced and inspired by such principles the democratic party has, from time to time, resisted the abridgement of personal liberty and rights when the same could be exercised and enjoyed without inflicting such evils upon the public as endangered good government and the general welfare of the people. You have been pleased to allude to the position of Mr. Jefferson upon sumptuary legislation. His position on that character of legislation is often used by the advocates of the liquor traffic against prohibition, notwithstanding the fact that no law writer of this day and time classed prohibition with sumptuary legislation, in order that the traffic in liquors, regardless of the public welfare, might be shielded from assault by the opinion of Mr. Jefferson. It may be that had prohibition been submitted to the people of Virginia in his day and time he would have voted against it, not upon the grounds, however, that the people did not possess the power and the right to protect themselves from evil destructive of good order, but rather for the reason that the evils of the traffic had not then assumed such magnitude as to seriously endanger the welfare of the public. The question before the people of Texas involves existing conditions which may have existed near a century ago. The evils of the liquor traffic, in Mr. Jefferson's time, pale into utter insignificance beside the monumental horrors that stalk through the land today, hand in hand with this traffic. The feeble and insignificant power for harm exerted by the saloon in the earlier days of the republic has grown to be an overshadowing despotism. It assumes to control the franchise of freemen. It sets at defiance the laws enacted to preserve the good order of society. It enters the high and the low places of authority, and stamps its will over the will of the people. The wreck of manhood which fill the land; the distress and bankruptcy wrought by its power; the onerous burdens of taxation imposed upon honest industry to defray the expenses of crime, the legitimate offspring of its power, all show how deeply the public welfare is involved in the evils of the liquor traffic. For one I believe the time has arrived when this despotism should be broken and overthrown, and the welfare of the people emancipated from its thralldom.

Very respectfully,
D. B. CULBERSON.

Exceeding the Limits of Reason.
Look over Texas from the Red River to the gulf. Picture the millions of fertile acres of farms and ranches. Observe the great seaport at Galveston, so near at hand. Nature has provided every blessing for our commerce. See the big cotton crop awaiting shipment to the sea.

But stop! The Texas Railroad Commission says you cannot go there, that you can ship to Houston, 50 miles inland, but if you go to deep water, you shall be charged another rate—that it will cost you heavily.

We are neither at Houston, nor taking sides with Galveston in this matter. We are not considering either of those cities.

The Commission makes a rate of 49c on cotton for over 160 miles, except south of Houston. From there to Galveston they add a differential of 6c per 100 lbs.

Farmers always have to stand the rate on cotton to the seaboard out of what they receive. They paid out for this unfair differential the startling sum of $750,000 last season, which was a dead loss. They are the losers by an immense amount during past years, on account of it.

There seems absolutely no justification for this differential. Let us explain briefly. Take Mexico for instance:

Mexia to Houston 180 miles, rate 69c.
Mexia to Galveston 229 " " 55c.
Dallas to Houston 264 " " 49c.

This plainly shows that Mexia to Galveston is 35 miles shorter than from Dallas to Houston, and farmers have to pay 30c a bale more for a less haul to Galveston, which is absurd. Or take Mexia to San Antonio 230 miles, rate 49c. What is the sense in making a 6c differential higher rate to Galveston for same distance. Again compare:

Seguin to Houston 274 miles, rate 49c.
Seguin to Galveston 204 miles, rate 55c.
Seguin to Beaumont 253 miles, rate 49c.
Seauin to Dallas 296 miles, rate 49c.
Seguin to Texarkana 418 miles, rate 49c.

Just look at that excessive rate to Galveston. Is it reasonable?

Again examine Temple to Houston via Santa Fe 213 miles, rate 49c.

Temple to Galveston via Santa Fe 218.3 miles rate 55c.

Galveston is practically the same distance in this case, but farmers are made to pay 6c differential higher. The same gross injury is done to farmers all along the Santa Fe line in Texas.

Similar astonishing comparisons can be made from all other points like Ennis, Hillsboro, Corsicana, etc., which are burdened with arbitrary higher rates to Galveston. These figures divulge an apparent outrageous abuse of rate making power by the Commission, in favor of railroads, which should not be submitted to much longer by deluded and damaged farmers of the State.—State Herald.

In Time of Peace,

In the first months of the Russia-Japan war we had a striking example of the necessity for preparation and the early advantage of those who, so to speak, "have shingled their roof in dry weather." The virtue of preparation has made history and given to us our greatest men. The individual as well as the nation should be prepared for any emergency. Are you prepared to successfully combat the first cold you take? A cold can be cured much more quickly when treated as soon as it has been contracted and before it has become settled in the system. Chamberlain's Cough Remedy is famous for its cures of colds and it should be kept at hand ready for instant use. For sale by all druggists.

Cure for Hydrophobia.

A German forest keeper, 62 years old not wishing to carry to his grave an important secret, has published in the Leipzig Journal a recipe he had used for many years and which he says has saved several men and a great many animals from a horrible death by hydrophobia. The bite must be bathed as soon as possible with warm vinegar and when this has dried, a few drops of muriatic acid applied to the wound will destroy the poison of the saliva and relieve the patient from all present or future damage.—Hallettsville Herald.

Bilious Attack Quickly Cured.

A few weeks ago I had a bilious attack that was so severe I was not able to go to the office for two days. Failing to get relief from my family physician's treatment, I took three of Chamberlain's Stomach and Liver Tablets and the next day I felt like a new man.—H. C. BAILEY, Editor of the News, Chapin, S. C. These tablets are for sale by all druggists.

Drying preparations simply develop dry catarrh; they dry up the secretions, which adhere to the membrane and decompose, causing a far more serious trouble than the ordinary form of catarrh. Avoid all drying inhalants, fumes, smokes and snuffs and use that which cleanses, soothes and heals. Ely's Cream Balm is such a remedy and will cure catarrh or cold in the head easily and pleasantly. A trial size will be mailed for 10 cents. All druggists sell the 50c. size. Ely Brothers, 56 Warren St., N.Y.

The Balm cures without pain, does not irritate or cause sneezing. It spreads itself over an irritated and angry surface, relieving immediately the painful inflammation. With Ely's Cream Balm you are armed against Nasal Catarrh and Hay Fever.

HERBINE

The Popular Liver Medicine Will Keep You Well

A GUARANTEED CURE for all diseases produced by TORPID LIVER and IMPURE BLOOD. Do not fill your system with Arsenic, Calomel and Opium. They act as rank poisons which vitiate the blood, debilitate the system, and leave a trail of bad symptoms which require years to obliterate. HERBINE is purely vegetable and contains no mineral or narcotic poisons; is absolutely harmless and is the simple remedy of nature. It carries off all poison in the system and leaves no injurious effects.

CURED BY HERBINE AFTER OTHER REMEDIES FAILED

Mr. L. A. Hicks, Iredell, Texas, says: "I was sick in bed for eight months with liver trouble, the doctor seemed to do me no good. I was told to try Herbine, and it cured me in a short time. I cannot recommend this wonderful medicine too highly."
